"Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied."
Matthew 5:6

This may seem like an odd passage. But it is important. We do not usually think about hungering or thirsting for something that is not food or drink. But the image presented here suggests that we should be craving righteousness the very same way that we crave food or drink when we are deprived of them. The critical aspect of this is that the righteousness we crave should not be for ourselves only. We should hunger and thirst for righteousness for all people.
