

Deacon's Beacons

April 3, 2020

“No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and money.”
Matthew 6:24

This does not mean that money is bad. It means that you should not put the love for money before the love for God. In this time of pandemic, it is becoming clearer that the things of God, family, caring for one another, concern for the other, have truly become more important than our careers or our wealth. In this, I do not mean to minimize that many are going through hard times and really need our help. Our focus should be on spreading the Gospel message, not by the preaching of our words but by the preaching of our lives. Remember the words of Jesus in Matthew's Gospel: I was hungry and you gave me food.

Go raibh síocháin Chríost a bheith in éineacht leat.
