“But will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain you; how much less this house that I have built!” 1 Kings 8:27

Sometimes we think that we can only find God in a Church. We come to Church to be together in our act of worship. Yes, in our Catholic Tradition, we understand that Jesus is truly present in the Tabernacle. But just as Solomon proclaims that even the Temple cannot contain God, we must also see that God is everywhere. One must be cautious here not to slip into a “nature religion” understanding of the presence of God. But God is always present. And that also means that we must worship God outside the Church as well. We do that most appropriately by following the commandment that Jesus gave to His disciples: Love one another.
